

MANSFIELD YOUTH HELD IN MURDER INQUIRY

Bandit Gang Member Call Fatal Shooting of Companion an Accident.

International News Service Mansfield, O., Jan. 10 — Two youths were held by Quincy police today in connection with the death of a young man shot with a gun in a Quincy hotel room yesterday.

The youth, identified as Elmer Roy Miller, 17, member of a four boys and a girl gang a week ago on a "blowdown" trip to California, was fatally shot with a
yesterday.

Others named are Richard A.
Miller, 17, who admitted holding a gun, and Robert W.
Miller, 15. They described the shooting as an accident.
The youth said the party was part of a holdup of a young woman in Peoria yesterday afternoon, before traveling by bus.

Others named Young prisoners also included two other members of the gang, Bruno Dresch, 22, and Earl's day girl, blonde, 16, both of whom were arrested in a Peoria hotel.
The youth said the party
ing by bus.

Goal was California
They had planned to go to California, financing the trip by selling gold coins along the way.

Police said the remainder of a 199-ton consignment of explosives still was missing.
Three trucks containing 67 tons of highly explosive cyclonite blocks were seized late yesterday in Ulster county, N. Y. This seizure followed discovery of a cache of 59 tons of explosives in a warehouse here and in a farmhouse near Wall township Thursday night and yesterday.

Some 5,200 combat knives originally made for the U. S. Navy and a quantity of first-aid kits also were found in the warehouse.
The freeze order was described by John B. Campbell, W. A. regional director, as a "precautionary measure" against "any possible illegal handling of explosives, in cooperation with the normal police powers of local and federal governments."

The uncertainty in the exact number of tons seized arose when state police and Monmouth County Prosecutor J. Victor Carton placed the total confiscated here at 59 tons and navy public relations authorities said the batch weighed 68 tons when it was unloaded at the Earle ammunition depot in Leonards for safe-keeping.

In New York last night, the Arab higher committee at the United Nations issued a statement urging that the federal bureau of investigation "make a thorough investigation of all Jewish and Zionist organizations in the United States which are raising funds to buy arms and ammunition and which are supporting the Nagaland and Argun, the Zionist terrorist groups."

Commissioners expressed concern this morning upon learning that once again vandals entered the men's lounge of the house and removed countopers.

When the public knew the men were in the house, they sneak thieves," said Leahner board chairman "All men taken in these thefts replaced at county exposed to the public as a whole ought to suffer the inconvenience of inadequate comfort facilities," Mr. Leahner concluded.

Thieves invaded the men's lounge last night, despite checks by police. Their theft consisted of five electric receptacle covers and electric outlets of the type that hooks from doors to lock.

Thieves removed plumbing fixtures, coat hooks and marble slabs. Courthouse and Cal Zink, a resident, taken fixtures with them this morning.

Action Taken After Illegal

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 10 state police had confiscated from 126 to 135 tons of explosives which they said had been gathered by Hunt Robber Gang 'Brains'

Two with Nearly Half of Loot Sought in $114,000 Hold-up in Louisiana.

By The Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10 — Three of the bandits who staged the biggest robbery in years were captured before the sun had set yesterday, but two other—described as "the brains of the outfit"—remain at large today with almost half the $114,000 loot.
Police Superintendent A. A.
Watters said $65,000 was recovered after arrest of the three, leaving $49,000 in the hands of the two "brains".

In view of the remarkably clever handling of the robbery and in light of the daring arrogance of the missing bandits, officers said the pair might have climbed aboard an interurban bus lugging in a suitcase their share of the loot.

One conspicuous link was apparent in plans to capture the fleeing robbers. No one seemed certain what either of them wore, or what they look like.
Employees of the Mid-City Hibernia National bank who were on the scene at the time of the heist were told by the commissioner that "if you look at me I'll put a bullet in you."

Detective Chief Joseph Scheuring identified the man in jail as George W. Ricketts, 23, of Chalmette, La., his nephew, 21-year-old Tommy Ricketts of New Orleans, John Hassenback, 23, also of New Orleans.

Scheuring said a suitcase packed with $35,000 was found in the house where the Ricketts were arrested and that $30,000 was found in a paper bag in Hassenback's room. Police said the latter had hidden the bag in a hole in the floor, then had pushed a heavy stove over the hole to conceal the small fortune in currency.

The robbery occurred in mid-morning and less than four hours later the Ricketts men and Has-senback were behind bars on charges of armed robbery.
The charge is punishable by death in Louisiana.

BRITISH BLOCK ARABS' ENTRY TO JERUSALEM

Famed Lancers Stand Guard Across Headwaters of River Jordan.

By The Associated Press
JERUSALEM, Jan. 10 — British Lancers of the famous "Death of Glory" regiment stood armed guard on the northern frontier of Palestine today across the headwaters of the River Jordan in what appeared to be a move to seal off the Holy Land partition battle from outside Arab attacks.

If this was an indication of British policy, it was the strongest move yet in the mounting civil war that has threatened to become international through the participation of Arab volunteers from Egypt, Libya, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon who now are training in southern Syria.

Credence was given this supposition through Britain's "strong representations" to the Syrian government over yesterday's border crossing by 600 Arabs who finally were driven back by the Lancers and Spitfires.

The attack, which was carried to the village of Dan Mide appeared to be the possible beginning of a general attack by troops of the veteran Arab revolt leader Fawzi Bey Al Kauki who is in command of Arab volunteers in Syria.

Arab sources here scoffed at any such possibility, claiming that the hour had not yet struck.
Government sources in London, meanwhile, said Britain would welcome any force the United States might want to send to guard the U. S. consulate in Jerusalem. The U. S. according to the sources, had "sounded out" the British high commissioner for permission to send a "small force" of Marines. They added, however, that no formal request had been made and no decisions reached.

No Marines Called For Palestine Duty

By The Associated Press
JERUSALEM, Jan. 10 — The Marines have not been called yet in Palestine and no call has been sent for them, authoritative sources said today.

Sources close to the consular corps in Jerusalem said a delegation representing all consulates had asked the Palestine government for protection in the Arab-Jewish strife, adding:

"If you can protect us, what is your attitude toward our providing our own guards?"

An Arab office statement in London yesterday, obviously stemming from Arab consulates here translated that into a call for the Marines.

So fervent were the feelings last night that Arabs along the coast practically rushed to the beaches to watch the Marines wade ashore.
Diplomatic informants here, however, reiterated that no specific request was made by any consulate for permission to bring specific troops. Government sources in London and Washington said the United States had "sounded out" the British high commissioner for Palestine on the subject, but that no action was taken and no formal request made.

Britain said it would welcome any force the United States might send for such a purpose.

Partition Commission Faces Urgent Problems

By The Associated Press
LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 10 — The United Nations Partition Commission today faced the pressuring problems of when it should enter the turbulent Holy Land and what it should do about measures to enforce its decisions.

Arabs, to emphasize their opposition to partition, are boycotting the commission.

Meeting in the wake of new outbursts of Arab-Jewish violence in Palestine the five-nation group hoped to craft a tentative program for entry into the Holy Land subject to consultations with the British on their date of withdrawal.

Present indications are that commission will leave here some time between the first week in February and mid-March. Plans included a stop in London for conferences with high British officials, the length of the stay depending on how far the UN progresses in talks with the British delegation here.

60 Years with Huber Company Brings Reward To John Klehm

In recognition of 60 years of service with the Huber Manufacturing Co., John Klehm of 175 North Saffner avenue was honored by some 300 of his fellow workers and presented a gold watch by Don A. Howard, Huber president and general manager, in an informal ceremony at the concern's plant on North Greenwood street Friday afternoon.

The presentation, which came as a complete surprise to Mr.
Klehm, was witnessed by a large group of Huber's officials and employees. Mr. Klehm was at work at his gear hobbing machine in the Huber machine shop when workers from all parts of the plant began to file in and virtually surround him. Not until President Howard beckoned him to the center of the large circle of employees did Mr. Klehm realize what was being done.

John Klehm in Marion, who officially marks his sixtieth year with Huber tomorrow.

In a brief speech of appreciation following the presentation of the watch by Mr. Howard Mr.
Klehm reviewed a few of the highlights in his long career. He recalled that he first came to work at Huber on Jan. 11, 1888, when he was 14. His first job was carrying water from the home of Edward Huber, founder of the Huber company, and president until his death in 1904, to the company plant, which then was located at the northwest corner of North State and Mill streets in the building now occupied by the Houghton Sulky Co.

Mr. Klehm said he carried about 100 buckets of water during a 10-hour working day at a wage of 4 cents an hour. The Huber home was located on North State street about a half-block from the plant.

Plant Moved in 1890
In 1890, shortly after the Huber plant was transferred to its present location on North Greenwood street, Mr. Klehm was given the job of cleaning brass in the warehouse. After several months at this job, he was transferred to the stock room, and then, in 1892, to the machine shop.

A truck loaded with four new Dodge and Plymouths ran off route 93 about five miles east of upset causing considerable damage to all four cars.

Driver of the truck was Chester M. Parks, 24, of Howell, Mich.
He was unharmed and his truck was only slightly damaged. He was attempting to pass an automobile and ran off onto the soft berm, the state highway patrol reports.
Patrolmen said they understood the cars were consigned to a dealer in Belleville in southern Richland county.

Two other traffic accidents were reported by the state highway patrol today.
A semi-trailer driven by Edward M. Young, 24, of Indianapolis Ind., ran off route 42 and upset about two miles west of Mt.
Gilead at 11 a. m. yesterday, causing considerable damage to the truck but no injuries.

Young was passing the scene of state highway department grading activities when he swerved off the road to avoid hitting an oncoming car, the patrol reports.
Cars driven by Cecil M. Linkey, 28, of near Mt. Gilead and Harley J. Bachelder, 41, of near Mt.
Gilead, collided on route 42 at 10:30 p. m. as both cars attempted to pass a third car heading in the same direction. Slight property damage resulted to both cars.

MORE TRADING FACTS SOUGHT

Committee Wants To Know About Pauley Talk with Cabinet Members.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today his senate committee investigating commodity speculation wants to know more about conversations Edwin W. Pauley had with two cabinet members about the time he completed a profitable market deal last August.

The committee probably will call Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and Robert E. Hannegan, until recently postmaster general and head of the Democratic national committee, to tell of their talks with Pauley at his Hawaiian estate, Ferguson told a reporter.

He said no date has been set for re-opening the Pauley angle.
Harold E. Stassen, the former governor of Minnesota now campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination, told Ferguson yesterday that administration insiders, including Pauley, have been in the markets to the extent of about $2,000,000 and have profited by approximately $4-600,000 since the end of the war.
He said Pauley alone made $1-000,000.

Stassen said he has information in about 11 big trades in the administration or closely related to it.

"I will not name them until I am ready to back it up with positive proof," he said.
Stassen said congress should pass a law barring all government employees from buying stocks, bonds or commodities of a speculative nature.

There is nothing illegal about such activities under present law.
Stassen declined to name the government employees who, he said, gave him the first "crucial information" which led him to name Pauley, now a special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall, as a speculator.

Although Pauley was not in the government last August, Stassen said, he was not only an insider but was "in the very center of the inside." Pauley took the army department job Sept. 3.

tion Keller was not held.

RETURN SEEN FROM LOANS

Recovery of Early Payments May Run High, Senators Are Told.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Ambassador Lewis Douglas told senators today the United States may recover through loan repayments up to $2,800,000,000 of the $8-800,000,000 proposed for the first 15 months' operation of the European recovery program.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) brought this out in a series of questions as Douglas continued testimony before the senate foreign relations committee on the proposed four-year program known as the Marshall plan.

Vandenberg recalled earlier testimony of state department officials and asked Douglas whether it is true that eventual cost to the United States might be "ultimately be reduced" by $1,300,000-000 to $2,800,000,000 through recovery on loans expected to be repaid under the plan.

"That is correct," Douglas assured Vandenberg.

Loan Estimates State department officials have estimated that from 20 to 40 per cent of any recovery funds advanced will be in the form of loans that may be repaid. The balance of 60 to 80 per cent would be in the form of grants that would not be repaid.

Vandenberg put it this way:
If a loan of 20 per cent is repaid the ultimate cost to the treasury would be $3,500,000,000, while if 40 per cent comes back the actual $5,800,000,000 initial cost would drop to $4,000,000,000.
Vandenberg then asked what will determine whether aid is extended in the form of a loan or a grant.

Up To Experts
Douglas said experts of this nation will determine the ability of the recipient nation to repay. He said advances for capital goods and equipment will be repaid if the nation is able to do so.

Both the amount of money required and the way the state department wants the program run have been under powerful criticism in the senate. Vandenberg previously has complained that the administration has failed to suggest a business-like operating system "in which the American people have confidence."

Without that "you are sunk without a trace," he added.
Senator George (D-Ga.), ranking Democrat on the committee and its former chairman, objected to any "all or nothing" stand by the state department in the request for funds to get the program under way.

He said if congress should decide to cut the initial appropriation to an even $8,000,000,000, for instance, "I don't think it would matter."

The two senators made their feelings known late yesterday during testimony in favor of the administration plan by Douglas, the ambassador to England.

home when Sheila left there on New Year's night to run an errand

Coast Guard Reports Strange Light in Sky

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The South Chicago Coast Guard station reported today that two coast guardsmen noted a strange light in the sky on Nov. 23, similar to those reported over Youngstown, O., Thursday.

Chief Boatwains Mate John Kinnunen, in charge of the station, said he noted a single shaft of white light, "50 to 60 degrees above the skyline to the south and off to the east of the station" as he was making a routine search of the lake from the observation platform. He said he noted the lights between 9:30 and 10 p. m.

Capt. Naftali Fulford, head of the local office of the coast guard, who was visiting in the station, was called out and said the light was "almost vertical, but not reaching to the ground, nor moving in any way. It seemed to get brighter, then dimmer, and after about 10 minutes it suddenly disappeared."

Capt. Fulford said he was certain the light was not a part of search or airplane lights.

O.S.U. STUDENTS PROVE TO BE GOOD LOAN RISKS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10.—Ohio State university students may borrow money without interest, security or fear of the sheriff these days because a Columbus cafe manager remembers his own collegiate financial embarrassment.

At the entrance to a campus eating spot, Manager W. T. Parker hung a glass case called "the lettuce box." It contains a dozen $5 bills subject to loan to bonafide students. The borrower merely fills out a card and promises repayment by a certain date.

"The plan has been in operation for over two months," says Parker, "and to date we've had no trouble with anyone defaulting."

10 HURT IN BOSTON RAILWAY ACCIDENT

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—The locomotive of a four-coach Providence to Boston passenger train overturned at Back Bay Station today, pitching about 63 passengers from their seats and sending 10 to hospitals, one of them an engineer who was trapped in his car.

Many passengers became hysterical but were treated at the scene.

Firemen used acetylene torches to free an inspecting engineer, John L. Morehead, who was reported at City Hospital to have burns on the wrists and bruises of the head and face. City Hospital reported nine patients but said "most of them are to be discharged."

Massachusetts General Hospital reported one victim discharged after treatment for a cut on the left arm.

First reports from the New Haven railroad said 63 persons were hurt but a check showed only 10 were hospitalized.

A railroad spokesman said later the other passengers were not believed injured seriously.

The four coaches of the train were tilted off the tracks after the engine smashed up over the loading platform at the station, which is about five minutes out of one of Boston's major terminals, the South station.

A piece of rail flew clear and smashed windows in the station, and embers from the overturned engine started a blaze on the platform.

DISPUTE ON RELIGION CONFRONTS COLLEGE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—Some 155 Catholic students at Baldwin-Wallace college will meet tomorrow night to determine whether they will follow in the footsteps of eight other undergraduate Catholics who have resigned from B-W in objection to a required course in religion.

President Louis C. Wright of the nearby Berea college announced withdrawal of the eight students from the Methodist institution last night, and said the Catholics also objected to required attendance at chapel programs.

Among the resigning students were Brian McCall, of East Palestine, O., basketball forward who indicated he had played his "last game" with B-W against Toledo university here last night, and track star Norb Badar, Ohio conference low hurdles champion.

Informing a student on the class in religion, Msgr. Vincent B. Balmat, chancellor of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, declared: "A Catholic may not under any circumstance or pretext attend a class of this kind."

Wright replied in a statement that the college is not a Catholic church but a college, and that the college's administration and faculty will continue to encourage the free search for truth, genuine scholarship and personal religion.

The college authorities will be exceedingly sorry for any Catholic students who are forced to withdraw," Dr. Wright continued. "The college remains open to them."

The B-W president reported there had been no discrimination on the Berea campus, and said the college authorities will be criticized in certain Methodist circles for admitting so many Catholic students while turning down Methodist and other Protestant students whose grades were somewhat inferior.

"There has been no change in required chapel programs and courses in religion for 100 years," he concluded. "This is stated in the college catalogue, and each student has this information upon entering college. Chapel programs have never been sectarian."

Msgr. Balmat elaborated his opinion on the required course by declaring:

"The study of religion denies or makes light of many of the fundamental doctrines of faith; it teaches positive error; it tends toward agnosticism and destroys all objective standards of belief and conduct."

Regardless, therefore, of the motives or mental reactions of the Catholic student who attends this class, "He cannot be justified in so doing."

EISENHOWER DRIVE ON IN NEW ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Senator Tobey (R-NH) declared today "nobody" can stop a campaign to line up New Hampshire's eight votes for the Republican presidential nomination behind Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower—"not even the general himself."

Tobey said he thinks Eisenhower has a "good chance" to win out in a convention delegate battle with supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen in New Hampshire's primary election March 9.

Seven of the first 17 to file for election as delegates yesterday were pledged for Eisenhower, two for Dewey and one for Stassen. The filing deadline is a month away.

Tobey told a reporter he may make some speeches the state for an Eisenhower slate of delegates. Among those who filed yesterday was the senator's son, Charles Tobey Jr.

The senator, at the same time, was elected as a member of the board of directors of the Draft Eisenhower League, with headquarters in New York.

Eisenhower, ill at home with a cold, made no comment on the developments, which projected him more forcefully than ever before into political discussions along with two other top ranking wartime military leaders.

REV. GUTHRIE ADDRESSES WEDNESDAY BIBLE CLASS

War and peace was the subject of Rev. Ellis Guthrie, pastor of First Church of the Brethren, when he spoke at the luncheon meeting of the Wednesday Noon Bible class at the Y.M.C.A. this week. He opened his remarks by telling of the three historic "peace churches," Mennonite, Friends or Quaker, and Church of the Brethren.

In stating the views of his church concerning pacifism, military training and teaching of the profession of killing," he declared that such training is "the final way away from democracy" and that it "weakens the morals of youth," quoting statements on increased drinking, social diseases and mental disturbances during World War II. "Christianity," he declared further, "is a monotheistic religion—belief in one God, and therefore teaches the brotherhood of all men. In war, then, brother is fighting against brother. Christ taught His followers to love their enemies. Hate destroys. It breeds war, and war breeds more hatred, and destroys the human soul."

The reports did not identify the passengers by nationality, or say whether women and children were among them.

HERE'S some help if you want to make a total mess of your speech when you get up to make a speech.
It seems that speaking well is pretty easy but speaking poorly requires plenty of work.
Dr. Harold F. Harding, an expert on good-speaking, has just written a piece called the "Principles of Poor Speaking." It's carried this month in the Scientific Monthly magazine. In it, Dr. Harding says:
"Contrary to popular opinion, it is fairly easy to write or to speak well. But writing poorly and speaking poorly are really difficult." Instead of outlining the things you should do to be a good speaker, Dr. Harding twists in the other way around. Just to show poor speaking is really a tough job, Dr. Harding lists a whole gang of rules a speaker should follow if he wants to be terrible.

From here on it's all Dr. Harding.
Don't prepare a speech until the night before. Better, don't prepare it at all. Just go in and try to talk off the cuff.
Right at the start hit the audience with three or four new words and mispronounce them. This will make you look pretty bright.
Don't pay any attention to a time limit. If you use up the allowed time with your introduction, just keep on and use up the other speaker's time.

DON'T GO IN FOR that old-fashioned thing called "modesty."
"Use 'I' frequently," says Dr. Harding. "The word 'I' at the beginning of successive sentences always attracts attention." This is still Dr. Harding: Don't worry about your dress. Be sloppy or flashy. Be sure to mumble. And—arrive late.

If there's a public-address system with loud speakers in the place, don't use it.
Says Dr. Harding:
"Writers of textbooks on speaking always harp on 'conversational quality.' It's a fair failure in poor speaking. To succeed, either talk to yourself or make an oration."
"CONVERSING directly with the audience is just another one of those impractical modern theories."
"Don't forget to arrange for strong lights in the audience's eyes. This is the same device used so successfully in the third degree."
"Insult your listeners. . . . After all, they can always read your book if they want real enlightenment."
"Use long and involved sentences throughout. Join clauses with 'and,' 'but,' and 'however' frequently. . . . A sentence is scarcely worth uttering if it is less than 150 words long."

JUDGE LADY ELECTED BY 2 ASSOCIATIONS

Hardin County Man Honored by State Groups.

Judge Joseph E. Lady of Kenton, newly elected president of the Ohio Association of Juvenile Court Judges, has the double distinction of holding office in both the juvenile and probate judges' associations at the same time.
Election of the Hardin county probate and juvenile judge to the presidency of the juvenile judges' association took place Friday at the final session of the two-day meeting in Columbus, and followed his being named Wednesday as secretary of the probate judges' association.
The two associations which met concurrently are often mistaken as one organization due to the fact that in many counties the office of probate judge and juvenile judge are combined such as in Hardin and Marion counties.

Clerk's Office Reports 1947 Receipts of $56,803 Receipts for the Marion county clerk of courts office for 1947 totaled $56,803.11, Clerk Calvin Oborn reported. Of this total $12,498.55 was paid into the Marion county general fund as the clerk's share of fees for services rendered.

Paid out by the clerk's office to the state motor vehicle bureau in Columbus on auto title receipts $3,749.30 and to the sheriff $1,758.32 for service of court papers.
Records of the clerk's office indicate that receipts for the month of March were the highest of the year while receipts for August were the lowest. Clerk Oborn attributed the low receipts for August to the large number of attorneys who vacation during that month and the general decline of court business during the end of the summer season.

By DeWitt Mackenzie

the cleavage between Russian communism and democracy is being more sharply defined. A blunt reminder of this is before the senate foreign relations committee yesterday for implementation of the Marshall plan for rehabilitation of Europe. The general didn't mince words. Without the establishment of peace and health and vigor in the countries of Europe . . . the historic base of western civilization, of which we are so proud, is being destroyed. . . . This is a project . . . must be carried to success against the avowed determination of the Soviet Union and the Communist party to oppose and sabotage it at every turn. . . . "The way of life that we have known is literally in the balance." . . . Apropos of the general tense situation, but having no immediate relation to the Marshall statement, a foreign office source in London yesterday threw out a thought about a possible new United Nations. He did this by hinting that the British may incline to the viewpoint attributed to certain elements in the American state department who are said to be ready to reorganize the United Nations "without Russia and her friends" in a real east-west showdown. . . . Your correspondent has reported before that there is talk in the air about the formation of a new UN comprising the democracies. . . . However, such a statement by a British official spokesman, even though guarded, came as an interesting surprise. The new peace organization presumably wouldn't bar Russia and her dependencies but the democracies would be in the majority and Moscow's power to block action by veto would be destroyed. . . . MEANTIME BRAZIL dealt a body blow to communism in the western hemisphere by withdrawing the last vestige of legality from the Brazilian Communist party which has ranked as the largest in North or South America. The chamber of deputies passed a bill, already adopted by the senate, removing all Communists from elective posts through the nation, and President Eurico Gaspar Dutra promptly signed it into law. . . . The Communist party, claiming a membership of close to 200,000, previously had been outlawed, although this didn't affect the status of office holders already elected. Brazil severed diplomatic relations with Moscow nearly three months ago because of attacks on the Brazilian president and the army by the Russian press. . . . AT THE SAME TIME over in Milan, Italy, the world was given further proof—if any were needed—that the Communists of Brazil or any other country take their directions from Moscow. The Italian National Communist congress was meeting and was attended not only by Italian leaders but by Harry Pollitt, secretary general of the British Communist party; Maurice Thorez, the French communist leader; and Yugoslav, Czechoslovak, Bulgarian, Romanian and Hungarian delegates. . . . One of the outstanding events of Wednesday's session was Pollitt's denunciation of his own Labor (Socialist) government and praise of "that great man of genius, Comrade Stalin." Another was when Pollitt, Thorez, and the leaders from other countries slipped out of the convention on some mission which speculation said might have been a meeting of the cominform, recently established by Moscow to direct attacks on the Marshall plan. . . . That is writing on the wall for all to read. Brazil has read the writing and has had the courage to record her interpretation in concrete action.

IT'S HARD ROW FOR 3RD PARTY

History Shows Only One Has Ever Influenced Election Result.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—What chance has third party candidate Henry A. Wallace to upset the presidential election? . . . Nobody really knows now, but the record shows that the three most formidable third party candidates in the past—all ex-presidents—only one polled enough votes to influence an election. . . . Republican Theodore Roosevelt, Progressive party candidate in 1912, divided the normally Republican vote with President William H. Taft. That insured an election victory for Democrat Woodrow Wilson. Roosevelt received 4,126,020 votes to 3,488,922 for Taft and 6,286,214 for Wilson. . . . Democrat Martin Van Buren, president from 1837 to 1841, ran as the Free Soilers candidate in 1848 but failed to get any electoral votes. The Free Soil party was composed of Democrats and Whigs who opposed the extension of slave territory. . . . Record of "Know Nothings" . . . Whig Millard Fillmore, who stepped up to the presidency from vice president when Zachary Taylor died in 1850, was the presidential nominee of the American or Know Nothing party in 1856. Fillmore got the electoral vote of only one state, Maryland, in the race with victorious Democrat James Buchanan and Republican John Fremont. . . . The Know Nothings were a formidable third party in the early 1850's, electing several congressmen and governors. Their main object was "to secure the government for genuine native Americans" and to resist the alleged political power of aliens and Catholics. . . . The name Know Nothing derived from the silence of party members concerning the organization, was organized as "The Supreme Order of the Star Spangled Banner." . . . Teddy Back With G. O. P. . . . The magnetic Teddy Roosevelt was offered the Progressive party nomination again in 1916 but refused and returned to the Republican fold. He supported Charles Evans Hughes against President Wilson. . . . Senator Robert M. La Follette, Sr., left the Republican party in 1924 to run for the presidency as a Progressive. His platform advocated farm relief, public ownership of railroads, direct nomination and election of the president and a constitutional amendment providing that congress could enact a law and override a supreme court ruling that it was unconstitutional. . . . Senator La Follette and Democratic nominee John W. Davis did a lot of speaking, making, but President Coolidge spent much of the campaign summer "front-porching" on his father's farm in Vermont. . . . Couldn't Beat Coolidge . . . A large majority of the voters decided to "keep cool with Coolidge." . . . Senator La Follette captured the 13 electoral votes of his own state, Wisconsin. . . . A third party movement showed considerable strength in western farm regions during the early 1930's. It was the Populist or People's party. It championed the cause of the farmer and the working man. . . . It demanded free coinage of silver, the direct loan of paper money to farmers on the security of their crops, a graduated income tax and government ownership of railway, telephone and telegraph. . . . James B. Weaver of Iowa, Populist presidential nominee in 1892, received more than a million popular votes and 22 electoral votes. . . . Democrat Grover Cleveland was elected president by a substantial electoral majority over Republican Benjamin Harrison. . . . By 1896 the Democratic party had adopted so many Populist ideas that the later endorsed the candidacy of Democratic nominee William Jennings Bryan. . . . The Populists, however, nominated their own candidate for vice president—Thomas E. Watson. By 1900 the Populist presidential vote was only 50,020. . . . When the silver-tongued Bryan ran against William McKinley in 1896, a number of conservative Democrats who didn't like Bryan's free silver platform bolted the party. Some of them formed a party called the Gold Democrats and nominated Gen. John Palmer of Illinois for president. He didn't receive any electoral votes. . . . Until Wallace's candidacy this year, the most recent third party movement was William Lemke's race as nominee of the Union party in 1936. The late President Roosevelt's lead over Republican nominee Alfred M. Landon was so overwhelming—523 to eight electoral votes—the vote for Lemke, a North Dakota Republican, made no difference.

The naming of a city planning commission here became necessary a short time ago when it was found that certain procedures had not been followed in setting up the original 1937 zoning ordinance here, which was later ruled to be unconstitutional by Judge Arthur D. The Navy and Foreign Policy

AN IMPORTANT and disturbing aspect of the dispatching of Marines to the Mediterranean is that it appears to have been done by the Navy on its own initiative without consulting the state department. That is what the state department has told the Italian ambassador in Washington.

Now the departure of two ships from Morehead City, N. C., last Tuesday was more than a routine naval operation, despite the Navy's carefully worded release to the contrary. They were attack-type ships loaded with tanks, jeeps, flame-throwers and field ordnance. The troops were field equipment and obviously were prepared for more than sea duty. While there were only 1,000 Marines, they could be supplemented by naval personnel in sufficient force to make up a landing party of 3,000 plus considerable equipment and men already in the Mediterranean.

However it was construed by the Navy's planners, this move constitutes a show of strength in the Mediterranean and is of more than "modest importance," the Italian ambassador was informed. In the present delicate international situation, it wasn't a move to be undertaken by the Navy on its own responsibility, unless the state department has rein-quished its duties to the admirals.

What's more, it wasn't a move to be made in an aura of semi-secrecy, once it had been decided upon. It is an action that deserves the fullest publicity so that it will come to the attention of interested parties the world over.

Caesar's Wife in Washington

THE issue that Harold E. Stassen has laid down for official and private judgment is whether or not it is proper for a government official to be a private speculator. It is not, as some are trying to interpret it, whether or not it is proper for a private speculator to work at his occupation.

Private speculation is a respectable and important part of the market economy of the United States. Within the limits of laws that have been passed to control its excesses, speculation is perfectly legitimate—a recognized activity of free enterprise. But when public officials practice private speculation, that's something else again.

A ticklish point of ethics is involved. Public opinion clearly expects public officials to be public officials, nothing else. It expects public officials, like Caesar's wife, to be above reproach.
It expects this because the people instinctively fear the possibility of corruption in government.
One Teapot Dome scandal in a generation is one too many.

Mr. Stassen's position is sound. If he can make his charges stick, government and the public welfare will be the gainers. Mr. Stassen, meanwhile, will have attracted favorable attention to himself as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, which is a legitimate and recognized activity of free enterprise in politics.

The Answer Is Always Yes

SENATOR BRICKER is talking about discharging half a million federal employees to save money in the new budget. Could that many employees be scuttled?

The answer, of course, is yes. It's always yes.
If the agencies that employ them couldn't afford to hire them they wouldn't be hired. It's that simple.

The rub is that the agencies can afford to hire them. Congress lacks the gumption to hit the federal payroll where it's vulnerable—in the appropriation bills for executive agencies. Nothing's harder for a congressman than to vote not to spend money, because it's unpopular. It robs the pork barrel of the juicy tidbits that make political good will.

When congress votes to take away big chunks of appropriations from the executive agencies, the federal payroll dwindles like a family's grocery money when company's coming. Senator Bricker and all members of the Republican party can get rid of half a million federal employees quick if they'll remember that one thing . . .

The Issue Won't Stay Down

WITH the retail price of butter a dollar a pound in many cities, proposals to reduce or repeal margarine taxes will get more attention in congress this year. Five bills put into the legislative hopper last year were never heard of again, having been quietly smothered by the dairy lobby.

Margarine consumption was only 13 per cent that of butter in 1939. By 1947 the figure had risen to 40 per cent. Per capita consumption of margarine doubled while that of butter declined one-third, this despite restrictive, discriminatory taxes and a federal law prohibiting salesmen from carrying in their delivery trucks more margarine than they have signed orders for.

Production and sale of margarine are complicated by a maze of taxes and restrictions put across by the dairy lobby in an era when no one was particularly interested in the margarine industry cause. The situation has changed today.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Truman and His Strange Tax Proposal.

THE President's speech on taxes is an amazing conglomeration of inconsistencies. Perhaps it is not all his fault. Perhaps he has a conglomeration of inconsistent advisers. Also he faces an election year during which his advisers must be Janus-headed, watching the Republicans on the right and Wallace on the left. It is tough going. For instance, he said:

"We do not believe that men exist merely to strengthen the state or to be cogs in an economic machine. We do believe that governments are created to serve the people and that economic systems exist to minister to their wants."

That is a satisfactory statement of our form of government and of the capitalistic system in economics.
But if capitalism is to survive, it is necessary that the individual must keep enough of his earnings to provide a rising standard of living for his family and to be able to accumulate a surplus over expenditures to invest in the industry of the country. In a word, the essence of capitalism requires that the individual not only earn enough to keep privately-owned businesses going by his purchases but that he save enough to invest in the capital structure.

Why $40?

That being so, why does Mr.
Truman insist that the wartime income tax on the individual remain in force except for a 50p of $40 for the payer and each of his dependents, an arbitrary amount to be offered by rising prices inevitable in his proposal to increase corporate taxes? And why $40? How was that figure reached, by what mathematical or psychological process? Why is $40 better than $50 or $60 or $35?

Mr. Truman proposes:
" . . . At least $50,000,000,000 should be invested by industry to improve and expand our productive facilities over the next few years."

How can the individual find the capital to invest in expanding industry if he cannot save? How can corporations invest in expanding industries if they are to be taxed an increased amount because they earned $4,500,000,000 more in profits in 1947 than they did in 1946? Where is the money to come from in competition with the government's compulsory levy of taxes and appeal to purchase voluntary bonds? Mr. Truman says:

The Consumer Pays

"Because of this extraordinarily high level of profits, corporations can well afford to carry a larger share of the tax load at this time."

But a tax is a cost of operations. It is usually added to price as any other cost is. In a word, the consumer pays this increase.
Worse still, the small enterprise, which cannot engage in major economies and therefore has to provide some other reason for attracting customers, will be driven out of business.

In fact, under his proposal, it will be preferable for the small business man to sell his business to a larger enterprise and to take a capital gain which involves a lower tax than the corporate income tax. That practice has already resulted in unwise mergers of businesses—that is, unwise from a national standpoint no matter how gainful to the individual.

The President proposes special adjustments for small corporations but he offers no program because such discrimination cannot be worked out. He throws that one into the lap of congress, which cannot find a way of doing what the President can find no way of doing.

Evidence of Confusion

In a word, the President is mixed up. He dares not accept Congressman Knutson's tax program without admitting that congress understands taxes better than the treasury does. Or is it true that these proposals came from his corps of corporals in the White House and not from the treasury?

At any rate, the President has not done any clear thinking on the subject. He himself said:
"One of the most powerful anti-inflationary factors in our economy today is the excess of government revenues over expenditures."

The simplest solution is to cut down government revenues, isn't it? Perhaps, it would be wiser to cut government expenditures as well. It would be best of all if citizens keep a large share of his earnings so that he does not become a cog in an economic machine, to repeat Mr.
Truman's words.

"Eagle Forgotten"

Altgeld Centenary Brings Him Belated Honor.

RECENTLY the centenary of John Peter Altgeld was observed in Chicago by a group of citizens representing a wide range of political belief and economic status.

Time has placed a new valuation on the immigrant boy who became governor of Illinois. Altgeld was brought to this country as a baby. As a boy he lived for a time in Mansfield, O., and later moved to Chicago where he worked at odd jobs while he read law.
Successful as a lawyer and real estate dealer, he was elected governor of Illinois in 1892. During his term he initiated many reforms and was a particular friend of the state university which today has an Altgeld Law School.

But he doomed his career by pardoning three men who had been sent to prison after conviction of complicity in the 1888 Hay-market riot. The accused men weren't implicated directly in the crime. They were convicted on the theory their preachments might indirectly have incited it, although there was no evidence this was so. Altgeld knew he was signing his political death warrant when he pardoned the men. He alienated the dissidents, the mocked, the scorned and with few friends in 1902.

The story of Altgeld has been widely reexamined in recent years.
His writings on law and his courageous fight for the underdog have won him fame in place of the vil-ification he received in his lifetime. Vachel Lindsay, who lived next door to the executive mansion in Springfield paid tribute to him in his poem "The Eagle That's Forgotten."

The invitations to the recent dinner read in part: "This is a fitting occasion for an observance to represent citizens of all classes, of all American political viewpoints, to bring to the attention of the public the principles of American justice for which Governor Altgeld stood, and to dramatize in a non-political way American support of the principles of the Bill of Rights."

For John Peter Altgeld has come to symbolize, in the tradition of Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and other Americans, that this nation is truly dedicated to the principle of equal justice under the law for all . . .

For any magazine in 1943 had this to say: "Honor John Peter Altgeld (1847-1902)—A German immigrant who became governor of Illinois, he is not in most lists of American heroes, but few men in his generation gave so much reality to the democratic promise. In a time of material ambition and hysteria, he discarded his own ambition to stand up for the dissidents, the mocked, the scorned and the wounded." Of Altgeld it can be said in the words that Anatole France laid at Zola's tomb—"He was a moment in the conscience of man."

Our Restless Veterans

VETERANS who acquired a habit of moving rather extensively over the earth's surface during the war have not shed their mobility with their uniforms.
The American Society of Planning Offices reports that of the 11,000,000 U. S. residents who have moved from their former homes to new localities since V-J day, the most highly-mobile group comprises veterans. Almost 12 per cent of all male veterans moved once or more times as civilians since the war ended.

Occupational speaking, most mobile group of migrants in the postwar U. S. has been professional and semi-professional workers. Analysis of Bureau of the Census statistics reveals that other highly-mobile occupational groups during the first 12 months of peace were farm laborers and farm foremen. Least mobile groups were farm owners, farm managers, and service workers—except domestics.

In terms of total numbers of persons changing localities, more women moved than men: in the year following V-J day, there were 3,700,000 female migrants (8.1 per cent of all females), compared to slightly more than 3-million male migrants (7.4 per cent of all males).

Leading reason for postwar migration has been to find or take new jobs. Six million people changed localities for this purpose. Another 2,000,000 Americans changed home towns simply to find adequate housing. Other major reasons given for postwar moves were to attend school (especially G.I.'s), health, and marriage.

Young people, veterans and others, moved more often than old—about one-eighth of all U. S. residents in the 20-30 age group have moved at least once since the war. More than one-fourth of all migrants were children under 14 who moved with their families.

Nor was most of this moving about simply shifts from one suburb to another in the same vicinity—about 3,000,000 of the total migrants moved from state to state. Some 60 per cent of the job hunters and 30 per cent of the home-seekers crossed state lines.

The Marion Lumber Co. re-

Truman Renaissance

By Raymond Moley

AS if we were not already sur-felled with controversy, another fight started in the holiday before congress met again. Two venerable American traditions are at war—on one side, the architectural integrity of the White House; on the other, the good old mid-western front porch. Harry S. Truman, who looks and acts like no breaker of traditions, has rushed in where executive angels have feared to tread.

Potent as is the belief that the White House shall stand un-tarnished through the years, however, the President has invoked the spirit of an institution that has been cherished in many states for almost a century and dedicated to talking and whispering lovers. A simple fireside chat addressed to those whose early memories are shadowed by the gentle protection of the front porch might sweep away gathering opposition, however distinguished.
Millions of us remember it as it protruded from the house well into the front lawn. Its columns and ceiling suggested the protective arms of the forest—rus in urbe.
Up against its strong railing, men rested their tired, beslippered dogs of a summer evening. Up and down the long shady street the neighbors drifted from porch to porch, exchanging greetings.

Out In The Open

The President makes his gesture in the interest of privacy, but the roots of the tradition involved a serious surrender of privacy. For neighbors could interpret the lives of neighbors by observing front-porch doings.
After sickness, the porch provided a place of convalescence. A family's social companions could be elected officers headed by W. J.
Gorton as president-treasurer.
Mrs. Ray Williams and daughter Betty Jane of Blaine avenue went to Wooster to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Smith.

Moley

known by watching the people who moved out front after supper.
There young men who came courting discussed matters with the daughters of the house. Young love gathered momentum in the front porch swing. New additions to the family were inducted by adding a little fence across the entrance at the top of the steps. Old age could sit all day and watch the world go by. And the dear departed passed over the porch and down the steps to another world.
The front porch had immense political significance. It was there that McKinley and Harding campaigned successfully for the presidency. But, unlike Truman, they did not take their porches to the White House.

Advantage and Disadvantage

What has the commission of fine arts to say in answer to this imprisoned American soul struggling for a reminder of happier days in Independence? The spirit of beauty is on its side, to be sure.
The front porch was a thing of comfort, not contour. It obscured whatever architectural virtues the house might have. It permanently darkened the parlor, whatever loss that might have involved. The porch is an interloper which had its greatest vogue in the era of greenbackism, whiskers and the Johnstown flood. The cool austerity of the White House belongs to a more graceful and tasteful age. It reminds us that there was beauty even before Harry Truman was born.

The architectural opponents of the President, moreover, have a certain logic on their side. It is the logic of the man who stopped his watch so that it might be correct twice a day. Architecture may be music, but it is not motion.
An accepted standard of taste must rest somewhere. There is horror in the thought that every President might drag up a bit of his past and plaster it on this national shrine.

Victor Hugo covered many pages with his anger at departed kings of France who built their several caprices into the Cathedral of Notre Dame. Consider what might have happened if Chester Arthur had insisted upon additions planned by the designer of Tweed's courthouse.

There are other ways by which President Truman can make us remember him. Already, he has made an enduring mark on history. He is the first President who has balanced the budget since Hoover.

73,000,000 Radios

Radio receiving sets in the United States now total 73,000-000—one for every 1.9 persons.
The Federal Communications Commission noted the estimate, from industry sources, in a year-end report.

The 1947 output of new sets was estimated at 12,000,000, of which 2,600,000 were PM receivers, 300,000 television receivers and the remainder standard sets.
As 1948 opened, commission records showed 1,968 standard authorized stations licensed or new standard stations on file; 376 FM facilities on the air, another 597 authorized and under construction, and 111 other FM applications on file, and 72 television stations licensed or authorized, with applications for 66 additional stations pending.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Some Storm Facts Set Right

Col. Jason Z. Pemmincan, a survivor of the famous eastern blizzard of '88, who has been too indignant over comparisons of recent snow-storms with it to speak calmly, has succeeded in regaining his composure sufficiently to get a few things off his chest. "I've studied our modern snowfalls," declared the colonel. "Nothing beyond a thin covering of light flakes! Any survivor of the blizzard of '88 would have been glad to have brushed away the highest drifts on Manhattan Island with his hat."

"The blizzard of '88 was a blizzard. It had zero weather, terrific gales and more snow, no matter what our incompetent and uninformed weather bureau say. I don't care what the weather man says about more snow on the level in this newest storm. None of it was on the level in '88, and four dozen stalwart men who went out to measure it were never heard of again. Their instruments were later found in a snowdrift seventy-five miles north."

"In New York a bronze eagle, weighing twenty-eight pounds, atop the Grand Union Hotel, was blown clear across Brooklyn and later found buried under six feet of snow on the roof of a bath house at Coney Island. A cigar case Indian near Niblo's Gardens got caught in an ice flood and was later found in the lobby of Barnum's Museum miles away. A marble statue of Daniel Webster that was away uptown for that era got turned completely around in a sudden gust and ice cracked the base."

"A farmer milking a cow in a shed on a farm where the Commodore Hotel now stands got brick ice cream. He started to go for his cow yards away but was buried in snow before he made it. The cow was in a perfect state of preservation that July, but it took time to get the ice off. Why I felt so cold for years after that blizzard that ten years later I went to the Klondike which seemed to me like a summer resort."

"It is only a demitasse snowstorm that anybody has the time or the stupidity to think of going out and meeting. All you need in a blizzard is that it is up to your neck even when you are on stilts. A man finoppling around with a yardstick with work of rescue and resuscitation and repair staring him in his frozen face would have been locked up as a slacker in '83, sir."

"A great fuss was made over a few thousand automobiles stuck in the snow. In '88 there were wagons and sleighs still down to the knees in Chicago, Boston and many other cities all over the country to locate ten days after the storm. You people got your newspapers in '47, didn't you?
In '88 we didn't know what day it was for weeks.
No paperboy got through north of Richmond."

"You got food and drink. In '88 a bottle of milk left on the sixth story of the Broadway Central Hotel was carried by the wind to Cos Cob. A plow driver named Whistlerworth made a sandwich of salt pork between icebergs in Union Square. His arm was frozen before he could get it to his mouth. In the old Gilsey House the chef tried to boil a pot of coffee and the pot cracked from a cold wind that got in under the window sills. A waiter standing four feet from a red hot stove got both legs frozen."

"You remember the aquarium, I assume," concluded the colonel. "It got to spinning at the height of the wind and didn't slow down enough to be pinned until the day after the storm. Understand? To leap aboard, in April, climb to the roof and attempt to throw a line to a tree. The building was revolving at such a rate he was spun 300 feet into the air. That was the last anybody ever saw of him. Blizzards these days?
Stick to facts. I hate a liar!"

Department of Silver Linings

On winter I am keeping score—The sky is dark at half-past four,
But here's a thought to warm the heart—
The season barely gets a start.
Before the days start lengthening, And later sunsets hint that spring, Though distant, can't be far behind,
'Tis thus to goseless I'm resigned.

MARGARET FISHBACK

Soviet Russia delights the young with an exact replica of Santa Claus, but calls him Father Frost—just so the children won't warm up to him too much. We can hear Father Frost crying:

Now, Dashero! Now, Dancers!
Now, Pranska and Vinsky!
On, Cometo! On, Cupids!
On, Donstoi! On, Vishinsky!

Just Right

By TRUMAN TWILL

This is an excursion into the strange field of women's dress sizes, a mystery no mere man can understand. Forty-five females boasting in loud voices that they still wear juniors and juniors weeping because they already have attained the proportions of short stout are confusing—to a mere man.

Furthermore, it all seems to depend on the individual garment. The numbers indicate the proportions, only in a general way. One manufacturer's Size 11 may be close to another's Size 13 and so on. This is what causes the endless trying-on and altering that cause women in pursuit of clothing to be the despair of men and that cause men in pursuit of clothing for women to buy them a new broom instead. This, too, is confusing to men, because they know exactly what sizes they wear and could buy a new suit over the telephone if they knew what color their waistcoat was.

Apparently bothers the manufacturers and retailers of women's clothing too, because the Consumer Goods Committee of the American Standards Association is working on a new set of "tool-proof" sizes for women. The Association would make various sizes inside the main classifications absolute. A Size 13 would mean 31 inches—absolutely—measured at the equator.

For the convenience of men who are bug-about the main classifications of women, according to size that is, they are as follows:

1. Junior. This means a slender girlish figure.
Do not give it another thought. It is probably the neighbor's daughter.
2. Miss. This could be a whistle-stop. Still free from hips but beginning to develop embon-point in the strategic places.
3. Little Woman. She has everything in her favor.

Militarizing Our Youth

A Sermonette
DR. EDWIN A. BROWN
Pastor of Wesley Methodist Church

Text: "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Matt. 26:52.

THE Church of Christ is confronted today with a momentous issue in the demand of military minded groups in America that congress adopt a law making peacetime conscription for military training compulsory. The churches of this country have spoken out almost unanimously against it. Organized labor is against it. Other groups interested in the general welfare have taken a stand in large numbers against it. Now comes the President supported by the professional Army and Navy leaders trying to persuade Congress to make it the law of the land.

The church is against military training of the youth of America for several basic reasons: First, it is a step toward war and in a time of tension between Russia and the United States it will be so interpreted. If the people of this country want peace they shall have to lean over backwards in standing for the things which make for peace. A law making military training compulsory would be the antithesis of all this. With a military establishment of nearly a million and a half men, the United States is the nation which has ever had in peace time—addition of millions more would forever convince the Soviet Union that we mean war.

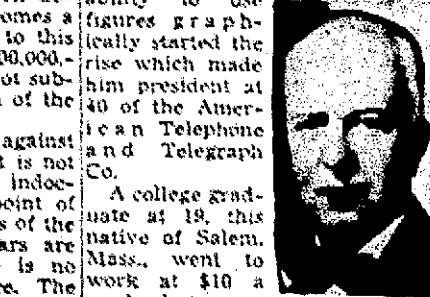

Second, even military authorities have admitted that as means of adding security peace time conscription is valueless. Gen. Eisenhower has said that in the event of another war the first 60 days will be decisive. In World War II the National Guard which had trained for months and years did not see action for ten months until Pearl Harbor. Maj. Gen. Roy E. Porter has testified that in his judgment an additional year of training would be required to fit Guard units for combat. It is sheer nonsense to suppose that millions of youth under 20 partially trained in military techniques would be of any value in a war fought with atomic bombs.

Third, the church is against military training in peace time because it invariably operates to give unprecedented influence and prestige to military caste in America. Historically speaking the United States has kept the ultimate control of military and naval affairs in civilian hands. The nation has never been dominated for long periods by the military mind. Yet if military training becomes a law we shall have the greatest military establishment in the history of the nation. In 1939 six years after Hitler came to power the total expenditure for all military purposes in this country was $1,300,000,000. For the fiscal year 1946 we project a total of $11,000,000,000—almost eight times as much.

PROPOSES CONTROL OF FLOODS AT LARUE

Farmer Offers Plan To Alleviate Water Damage.

Harry Boyd, farmer of near LaRue, has proposed a plan, which in his opinion, will free three streets of LaRue's business district from being flooded by heavy rain and back water from the Scioto river.

Boyd's plan calls for the removal of the span of the LaRue-Hepburn Pike bridge, one half mile north of LaRue; filling the space between the bridge abutments level with earth covered by stone facing to the present road level of the pike and installing in this fill two iron pipes four feet in diameter equipped with automatic flood gates on the end of the pipes toward the river. The theory of Boyd's plan is that the pressure of water during heavy rains will force the flood gates open draining the land of the McElheny, Topliff, and Boyd farms.

Boyd believes that when the Scioto river rises that the pressure of the river backwater from the opposite direction will force the automatic gates closed sealing the ends of the drainage pipes and protecting the three farms. At the same time the closure of this opening will hold out water which at present backs through this opening flooding Vine street, Market street, bearing state route 95, School street, and the new playground of the centralized school.

Boyd states that a similar flood control installation protects the Marion airport from the waters of the Little Scioto river. The cost as Boyd estimates it would amount to $305 for the two flood gates which he believes could be paid by public subscription by citizens of LaRue and by private donations by interested parties and farmers whose land would be benefited. The remainder Boyd believes could be paid by county funds at a cost he estimates at $800.

The plan, as described by Boyd, would eliminate the present narrow bridge traffic hazard on the LaRue-Hepburn pike by removing the bridge and substituting a fill which could support a highway the same width as the pike. Construction, he believes, could be started in April or May with the completion well in advance of any summer floods.

House Insulation a Year-Round Benefit

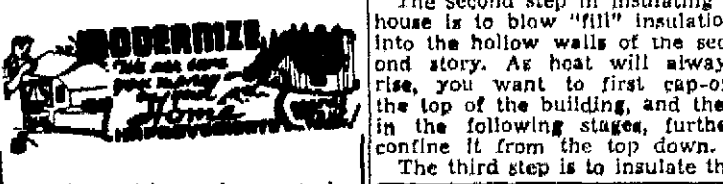

The average individual thinks of insulation in terms of saving fuel or heating energy; when as a matter of fact a good insulating job acts two ways, and excludes excessive heat in the summer just as well as it conserves the heat within the home during the winter season.

The fact that a house has already been built without insulation does not prevent the installation of material in a sound and efficient manner.

There are several ways of installing insulation in an already-built house; and our advice is to

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Sticky Finish on Chairs

Q: I cleaned some solid oak kitchen chairs, washing them with one of the newer cleaning preparations in the water. After they were perfectly dry, I gave them a coat of white shellac. The chairs are still very sticky after several days of drying. Can you tell me what to do so we can sit on the chairs again?

A: When shellac remains sticky, it is usually in a state of disintegration. Either it was of a poor quality or it was stored in a type of container that caused disintegration. Perhaps you omitted to rinse off the cleaning water thoroughly before letting the chairs dry; this might have had something to do with the trouble. I suggest that you sponge the chairs with denatured alcohol to take off all the shellac down to the wood. Finish with two coats of quick-drying varnish. For a very smooth finish, sand the first coat lightly and dust off.

Papering Over New-Style Cold Water Paint

Q: Can you tell me if I can put wallpaper over a wall that is now painted with a resin-base, water-emulsion paint?

A: If the paint is in good condition, it can be given a coat of glue-size, after which it can be papered in the usual way.

Mr. Whitman offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning home repair work. walls of the first floor, and thus arrive at a complete insulating blanket for the house. When this program is followed out, and supplemented with storm-sash and weather-stripping, the savings in fuel consumption will pay for the insulation and sash in from three to five years under normal circumstances; and from there on it will pay tremendous dividends.

By actual test, an experiment made on an old farmhouse over a period of three years, showed that the first "capping" of insulation reduced the fuel bill by nearly 20 per cent. The following year when the second-story walls were insulated, an additional saving of 12 per cent was earned. The third year, when the walls of the first floor were filled, there was another seven per cent saved.

Many homes which are equipped with storm-sash and vestibules may be quite satisfied with the first or second stages of an insulating job, so it is recommended that this be tried at first, and then followed out as conditions indicate the necessity to the owner.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

Economy of construction through simple rectangular design and compact planning distinguishes this small farmhouse planned by agricultural engineers, architects and home economists of the U. S. department of agriculture. The house is designed with full basement for northern localities and without basement for the south. Working drawings are available through county agents, free in some states and for a nominal charge to cover printing in others. This is Exchange Plan 7011. Working drawings are 7023-N for north and 7023-S for south. The U. S. department of agriculture, division of farm buildings and rural housing, Beltsville, Md., will advise as to the nearest state offering the plan in cases where county agents cannot supply.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

As Philip Vertizen appeared in the doorway with the ropes, Mr. "K." murmured something to Dicky, the words of which I could not catch, and I was sure that even a suspicion of sound did not reach the owner of the Lansfield.

Without taking his eyes from the two ugly customers, whom he and the F. B. I. man were guarding with drawn revolvers, Dicky spoke audibly and with decision. "If you do not mind, Phil, just put the ropes down on the floor near us. 'K.' wants to wait for the men for whom we telephone before we do any roping. He doesn't want to take any chances on these babies."

"You better get six extra men," one of the thugs boasted from the side of his mouth. "We'll give you a job before you get us roped."

Neither Dicky nor Mr. "K." took the slightest notion of the taunt, so absurd in view of the fact that the F. B. I. man's adroitness had enabled him to get the drop on both men, and hold them captive until Dicky had come to his rescue. Philip Vertizen, too, was silent, for he also knew that the revolver must be kept trained on the men during every instant of the tying-up process. These thugs had been chosen for their strength and toughness.

Philip came to Dicky's side and dropped the ropes upon the floor. As he did so, the knocker sounded, and he drew a breath of relief. "Don't take off your night chain until you're sure," Dicky counseled, and Mr. "K." nodded a vigorous assent. "And keep to the side of the door."

"I'll be careful," Philip assured them, but I gave a little sigh of relief when he finally took off the night chain, and admitted Adams and Miller, familiar to all of us, for they had done us service in more than one of my father's problems, with the bizarre activities each involved.

"Come in," Philip Vertizen said cordially. "You made excellent time getting up here. Just get over there. You're needed."

The two men walked quickly to the group in the center of the room, and ranged themselves behind the two thugs. Dicky did not turn his eyes away from the men he was guarding, but as the two men came within range of his eyes above the men, he spoke in relieved tones.

"Hello, Adams. Hello, Miller. Gosh, I'm glad to see you two again, especially here and now! 'K.' these are two of the best."

"We'll need them," the F. B. I. man said, and I knew that he was not under-estimating the vicious capabilities of the thugs.

Philip Vertizen seized the moment to turn chivalric.

"I had to explain to Olga about these ropes, and she wished to rush to your side, Madge," he said a bit pompously, "but I persuaded her to stay in the library and finish what she is doing. I told her that I would bring her to you as soon as possible. If you will

MORE FUNDS NEEDED FOR BIS PROGRAM

Hayes Says $100,000 Will Start Marion Branch.

The $100,000 appropriation for a "security" institution for boys at the Marion Scioto Ordinance plant will merely begin the appropriation, according to an Associated Press dispatch on the Ohio Juvenile Judges Association meeting in Columbus Thursday.

The statement was made by Col. Harold Hayes, Lancaster Boys' Industrial School head, in an address opening the annual two-day association meeting, attended by Marion county Juvenile Judge Edward J. Russo.

In speaking on the increased need for correctional facilities, Col. Hayes told the judges that one-third of the boys now at BIS do not attend school at all.

"It is remarkable how many non-feeble minded boys at the school cannot read," he said.

Another association speaker, Dr. Maurice Neuberger, director of the state bureau of juvenile research related delinquency among Ohio youth is declining, and has been on the wane since the war's end.

excuse my not escorting you, I beg you will go to her."

"Thank you, Phil," I said with the deference I usually accord the impresario who has produced one play of mine, and is preparing to put on a second. "If Dicky and Mr. 'K.' do not need me here, I will go to Olga immediately."

But inside I was holly resentful of Phil's absurd chivalry. I had helped in too many of these critical moments in my father's enterprises, to relish being banished, not to safety—I knew there was no danger to me in staying—but to the decorum which was Phil's notion of behavior for women.

"How about it 'K.'? Dicky's voice was slow and drawing, but there was something in it which warmed me with the knowledge that he understood what was going on inside my mind. "Do we need her?"

I held my breath to hear Mr. "K.'s" reply.

"Of course we need her," the F. B. I. man said. "Please stay right where you are, Mrs. Graham."

NILES, O., Jan. 9.—A $305,000 plan for building additions and mill equipment at the Niles rolling mill was announced today by Company President James A. Roemer. One new plant addition of 13,500 square feet will be constructed to house a bar-shear.

WANT TO SAVE $48.00?

Yes? Then install an Eagle-Picher Certified Insulation job now and save as much as 40% on your fuel bill. Instead of burning 12 tons of coal, you'll burn only about 8. The 4 tons saved, converted into cash, will equal approximately $48.00. Similar savings are possible if you burn oil or gas.

This is only half the story, for these fuel savings are yours for as long as the house remains. That's because Eagle-Picher Insulation is as permanent as the materials from which it is made.

Be wise, economize with an Eagle-Picher Certified Insulation Job. Call us now for a free estimate.

Death tries to break, all in vain;

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN S. RUDESEN

Treating Diabetics

Few things are more fascinating as they continued on the diet, its complicated chemical balance, no further attacks occurred. The diet should be kept rich in the disease will result if it goes just a protein foods, such as meat, milk, little out of kilter one way or the other.

For health, the amount of sugar in the blood must remain within fairly constant limits. This is accomplished by a secretion from the pancreas of a chemical known as insulin, and we run into trouble whenever it is increased or decreased above or below the normal amount.

When the pancreas, which is a gland located in the abdomen, fails to make enough insulin, the body is unable to use sugar and the disease known as diabetes results. On the other hand, when too much insulin is secreted, sugar is burned at a terrific rate and there is a sudden drop in the amount of blood sugar.

The resulting condition, known as hypoglycemia has unpleasant symptoms, the most common of which are pain in the abdomen, weakness, numbness, cold sweats, dizziness and lack of alertness.

The sensation of hunger is present in most patients during an attack. At times, there may also be a craving for sweets. The symptoms are temporarily stopped by eating, particularly by taking ice cream or fruit juices.

The symptoms in certain patients studied had been present for a period of from three months to twenty years, the average being four and a half years. As a rule, the attacks came on between one and a half and five hours after a meal, and were started or made worse by physical exertion.

The exact cause of this disorder in which too much insulin is secreted has not been discovered. However it seems that the condition can be kept under control by proper treatment. The abdominal pain, which occurs in practically all instances, seems to be due to the effect of insulin on the contractions of the stomach and bowel and on the secretion of acid by the stomach.

This pain is so similar to that which occurs as a result of stomach ulcer, that great care must sometimes be taken not to confuse the two ailments. The surest way of ruling out ulcer is through an X-ray examination of the stomach. The patients mentioned above were treated by giving them a diet low in carbohydrates, that chemical tests the amount of sugar in the blood. Then the patient is given glucose and, at hourly intervals, for four hours the blood sugar is again determined. In patients with hypoglycemia, the blood sugar rises; a true diagnosis.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

"Green Dolphin Street"

Playing at Palace

An adventure yarn with a picturesque background concerning a passionate dramatic triangle of two sisters after the same man is the new spectacular romantic drama, "Green Dolphin Street." Starring Lana Turner, Van Heflin, Donna Reed and Richard Hart, the film opened today at the Palace theater and is billed to continue through Thursday.

Laid against the town of St. Pierre, the colorful Channel Island seaport of the 1840's, and rugged New Zealand, the picture contains many almost realistic scenes of an earthquake, the floundering and sinking of a magnificent clipper ship, and an uprising of the dangerous New Zealand natives.

Against this background is told the story of the ruthless Marianne Pastorel, played by Lana Turner, who falls in love with William O'Zanne, and stoops at nothing to win him, even to breaking her sister's heart. She uses all her resources to get O'Zanne into the Royal Navy. Then, when through a misadventure in China, he misses his ship and finds himself a fugitive in New Zealand, Marianne plans to join him there and to marry him, despite the fact that it is her sister, Marguerite, whom O'Zanne really loves.

Supporting players in the film include Frank Morgan, Edmund Gwenn and Dame May Whitty. A double feature, "Pirates of Monterey" and "Glamour Girl," is to be shown Friday and Saturday. The former, filmed in technicolor, stars Maria Montez, Rod Cameron and Philip Reed, and heading the cast in the latter is Jack Leonard with Gene Krupa and his orchestra.

"Pirates of Monterey" is about California in 1840 and concerns a young Spanish girl, played by Maria Montez, and her romance with a rough-tough American, played by Rod Cameron, who smuggles rifles to the Mexican fort at Monterey to save it from Spanish royalists trying to overthrow Mexico's rule.

Tyrone Power

Stars at Ohio

"Captain from Castile," a romantic and spectacular drama of early-day America when Cortez and his Spanish gangsters swarmed across Mexico to steal the treasures of Montezuma, is the current attraction at the Ohio theater. It opened Friday.

The Darryl F. Zanuck technicolor presentation of Samuel Shellabarger's novel, starring Tyrone Power in the lead role of the hero, Pedro de Vargas, is a saga of gold, empire, vengeance and glory.

Cast composite Power in the feminine lead is the sensational and much talked about screen newcomer, Jean Peters of Canton, Ohio, less than a year ago, was an Ohio State university co-ed. In having been chosen for this film, she won one of the year's most coveted roles in movieland for this her first picture since going to Hollywood after winning a popularity contest.

Tyrone Power, in the role of Pedro de Vargas, is the son of an aristocratic Spanish family, who is forced by the Inquisition to flee his native Spain. With him go Lee J. Cobb, soldier of fortune with a price on his head and the peasant-maid who made his escape possible. Under the banner of Cortez, de Vargas joins history's boldest adventurers in braving the hardships and dangers of the New World.

Jean Peters, as Catalina, the peasant maid, in love with Pedro, follows him to the bright promise of a new world. She sticks with him despite his sworn devotion to his Spanish lady.

In the outstanding supporting cast are Cesar Romero, who plays Hernan Cortez, the conqueror who wrote a colorful chapter in world history, John Sutton as the brutal Diego de Silva, and Lee J. Cobb as Juan Garcia, a brave soldier and staunch friend of Pedro.

The next attraction will be a lively romantic comedy, "Always Together," co-starring Joyce Reynolds and Robert Hutton. In the supporting cast are Cecil DeWolfe, Ernest Truex and Don McGuire.

Thrilling Story Of

Sea at Marion

A thrilling story of the sea, "Captain Caution" starring Victor Mature and Louise Platt, and "Captain Fury," a frontier drama of Australia starring Brian Aherne, Victor McLaglen and June Lang, will be shown as the double feature Sunday through Tuesday at the Marion theater.

The former story revolves around the romance and adventure in the lives of Victor Mature, portraying the title role, and Louise Platt, playing a high spirited girl, who takes her father's place as captain of the ship, Olive Branch, when he is killed in a sea battle. In the latter picture is told the story of dauntless men and brave women who migrated to the bush country of Australia to build a nation out of a strange wilderness.

"Of Mice and Men" and "Strike Me Pink" will be shown Wednesday and Thursday. The former stars Burgess Meredith, Betty Field and Lon Chaney Jr., and heading the cast in the latter are Eddie Cantor, Ethel Merman and Brian Donlevy.

The former picture tells of two men, migratory ranch workers, and the friendship between them and of their dream some day of having enough money to buy a small farm of their own. In "Strike Me Pink," Eddie Cantor is cast as a timid little college tailor whose secret passion for a glamorous night club singer, played by Ethel Merman, moves him to take a correspondence course in personal magnetism. Then he inherits the management of a huge amusement park and becomes involved with a gang of slot machine racketeers.

Friday and Saturday, the double feature will be "Law Comes to Gunlight" and "The Dragnet." Johnny Mack Brown is starred, with Raymond Hatton, Lanny Ross and Reno Blair in supporting roles. In "Law Comes to Gunlight," an exciting Western, which tells what happens when Johnny is hired as sheriff in a town which is run by a crooked mayor. "The Dragnet," starring Henry Wilcoxon and Mary Brian with Virginia Dale, is a thrilling story of international jewel thieves smuggling by trans-oceanic airlines.

TYRONE POWER and screen newcomer, Jean Peters, are the romantic leads in Darryl F. Zanuck's presentation in technicolor of "Captain from Castile," which is now playing at the Ohio theater.

The story in the former film revolves around the married life of a young couple up to the time the boy is discharged from the Army. It tells of their encounters with in-laws, unemployment, and other problems which threaten marital happiness and how they survive these ordeals.

Billed as a double feature for Tuesday and Wednesday is "Isle of the Dead" and "Bad Man of the Border." The former stars Boris Karloff and Ellen Drew, and heading the cast in the latter are Kirby Grant and Armida.

Iida Lupino and Dana Clark are the starring players in "Deep Valley," the main attraction of a double feature to be shown Thursday through Saturday. Completing the billing will be "Return of the Lash" starring Al "Lash" LaRue.

MRS. HARDEN HOSTESS

TO SUNSHINE CLASS

A meeting of the Sunshine class of Prospect Street Methodist church was held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Earl Harden at 488 East Church street, with Mrs. Lula Grossglauss serving as associate hostess.

Election of officers for the year was conducted with Mrs. Lula Grossglauss chosen to serve as president, and Mrs. Fred Haas, secretary and treasurer. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Rudolph Risch, and a letter from a former class member, Mrs. Clarence Gompl, now residing in Tucson, Ariz., was read.

The program, in charge of Mrs. Haas, consisted of two vocal solos, "My Lord and I" and "Good Night," by Miss Ruth Carr, accompanied by Miss Frances Haas, and two piano solos, transcriptions of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" and "O Sanctissima," by Miss Haas. The mystery prize was won by Miss Carr. The hostesses were assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Howard Mitchell.

Dog Warden Drives

On Night-Running Dogs

Reports received by County Dog Warden W. M. Warner indicate that many dogs are being permitted by their owners to run loose at night. Such a practice constitutes a violation of Ohio law, he said, and for the next few weeks there will be a nightly patrol by the warden. Any dogs found running loose will be picked up or killed and the owners, if known, will be prosecuted.

"A more stringent enforcement of the law concerning the running at large of female dogs may be expected," Warden Warner said. An increase in animal damage by packs of dogs running loose at night may cause an increase in dog license fees to cover the costs of covering this damage, which must be paid to the owners of injured and killed animals by the county. The purpose of the intensified campaign by the dog warden at this time is an effort to forestall such an increase.

HOLT IS SPEAKER AT P.T.A. MEETING

Retiring Superintendent Addresses City Council.

E. E. Holt, superintendent of Marion city schools, who is to become superintendent of Springfield schools Feb. 1, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Marion city council, Parents and Teachers association, Thursday night in the home science room at Harding High school.

Mr. Holt stated that P.T. A. members rarely realize the power they have as parents and teachers. Urging the association to keep up the fine work it has done Mr. Holt assured the members that the school system here has an excellent incoming superintendent in Lester L. Dickey of Painesville.

He expressed the hope that the members of the council would remember him through the word

"Faith." He said faith is something that without it, we could do nothing. He continued with "F" is for father—supreme and eternal. "A" is for answers—father answers wisely. "I" is for individual—willing to be instruments for good. "T" is for thankful—for that which we have, and "H" is for hopeful—looking forward. He urged the members not to forget the great strength which the National P.T. A. has, and explained that this strength comes only through the individual.

Musical numbers on the program were presented by the girls' ensemble of Harding High school. They sang "When We Were Young," "Without a Song," and "When You Wish Upon a Star."

A nominating committee was named to be composed of Mrs. Edwin Merrill, chairman; Mrs. Lee Wedertz and Mrs. Harold McKeever. Mrs. Arthur Noble, council president, reported on a council presidents convention held Dec. 11-12 in Columbus.

Mr. Holt was presented a gift of remembrance from the council.
